Real Weddings

What inspires you?

One thing we've learned is that couples are most inspired by other couples. That's why, every year, we gather dozens of real weddings, put on by couples with local ties, that have taken place in and around Nashville. Our hope is that they plant a few new ideas in your head—and help as you plan out your own perfect day.

"I would tell brides-to-be not to focus on the events and details, but on your relationship. Looking back, I would not have invested so much of myself. As a bride, I would delegate more and not be a perfectionist! At the end of the day, what matters most is that you are getting to marry your person, so who cares if the cake has almond or buttercream icing."
